THE WEEK IN SOCIETY.

FOR CHARITY AND MARRIED BLISS. BRILLIANT WEDDINGS AND CHARITABLE ENTER-

TAINMENTS. There was something like the usual amount of post-There was something like the usual amount of post-Lenten activity in fashionable society last week. A number of marriages of persons more or less closely connected with the charmed circle of the "400," were conspicuously celebrated; and the great char-itable show of the season took place. Little fairs for churches, hospitals or reading-rooms broke out for churches, assured to reading rooms broke out thickly all over the city—the result, perhaps, of the meditation, the alleged self-denial and the unselfish occupations of the penitential season that ended with Thus everybody who was anybody had enough to do and was correspondingly happy. But the fun was mostly indoors, although the almanac the fun was mostly indoers, atthough the almanac indicates the arrival of spring. Cold or rainy weather prevailed during most of the time, and prevented people who are fond of driving from getting much enjoyment out of that pastime. A drive in an open victoria in Central Park was a wintry amusement, and a temptation to Pneumonia to jump up behind Record should be made of the and steal a ride. and steal a like the state of the Harvard Col-ide Hasty Pudding Club at the Berkeley Lycoum. It is curious how popular performing, masquerading, ballet-dancing students can make themselves, and how successful their entertainments always are. Yet it toubtful if the admiring spectators really regard that kind of amusement as "having distinction or beauty." To what class does it belong? The upper class materialized, the juniors vulgarized, or the sophomores brutalized?

From many points of view the Carnival of Venice charitable entertainment at the Metropolitan Opera House on Wednesday and Thursday evenings was the most important social incident of the week. It certainly interested the largest number of prominent people; yet like all huge displays of that kind it lacked personal interest. The dances were pretty, and Marwig deserves credit for the way in which they passed off. But it is impossible not to be struck speaking to a Tribune reporter yesterady, Mr. Frohman with one fact. This entertainment was arranged by said: some of the most influential ladies in town, who personally supervised and approved the whole of it. or sons-yet one looks in vain for their family names on the lists of the dancers. There is no reason for riticism at this point, of course; but it only shows that when it comes to dancing in public, even for sweet charity's sake, there is great difference between mine and thine in the matter of sons and daughters. But there was no doubt about the Carnival's success, and the boxes on the first evening were filled by men and women of fashion. On the second evening the attendance was not so large, although the performances moved off more smoothly. The Hahmemann Hospital managers may well congratulate themselves on having so many kind friends interested in their institution.

went bravely on. At 3:30 in St. Thomas's, at Fifty-third-st and Fifth-ave., Miss Florence Harts-horne and Henry B. Kane were married in the presence of a congregation which apparently had not suffered from the storm. It took three clergymen to perform from the storm. It took three clergymen to perform the ceremony. The bride was dressed in white satin and tulle, and was attended by a bevy of bridesmaids, all fair to look upon. A half-dezen assorted ushers sarried themselves gallantly, both at the church and later at the reception at the bride's father's house in Fifty-first-st. In the evening when the wind blew harder, although the rain did not pour down in so heavy torrents as earlier in the day, Calvary Baptist Church, in West Fifty-seventh-st., was the scene of another wedding-Miss M. A. Isaaes and Arthur L. Lesher's. There was a full complement of bridesmaids, ushers and admiring friends. This bride was attired in white moire and point lace. The reception at her father's house, No. 20 East Sixty-ninth-st, was largely attended. Among the guests were the Governor of Connecticut and Mrs. Lounsbury, and Mrs. Galusha Grow, the bride's uncle and aunt. their engagement was first announced, both their families and friends seem to have combined to make the most of that blissful period for the young lovers. Engagement dinners were given all around the circle, and every stage of the happy time was celebrated in some appropriate way. It will come hard for Mr. and Mrs. Rhinelander to settle down to prosaic mar and Mrs. Rhinelander to settle down to prosate mar-ried life; but at any rate their courtship and wedding have afforded them much diversion. The marriage caremony took place at the bride's home, No. 443 Fifth-ave. The Rev. Drs. Cooke and Coxe officiated. The house was beautifully decorated with flowers, and also by the presence of a host of well-dressed guests-who add more to the effect of a wedding than generally admitted or reckoned upon. The couple stood on a dats of red velvet. The bride seemed to have diamond all over her, and the rest of the visible outfit was satin, point de Venice luce and silver Four bridesmaids, six ushers and a best man added to the charms and dignity of the bridal centrated in the Church of the Holy Spirit, where there was a wedding ceremony with a choral accompaniment. The bride was Miss May Bolles, daughter f Mr. and Mrs. T. N. Bolles, and the ecstatic man of the occasion was Augustus W. Dunning. At 8 p. m. the chancel presented a picturesque scene. Thir-y-five choristers singing the chorus from "Lohenrin" had preceded the bridal party up the central alsle, and new stood among the palms and flowers as the ceremony went on. The bride, who is exceedingly preity, was dressed in satin, point and duchesse lace, and was surrounded by a group of seven young girls, six usbers, a best man and two Of course the bridegroom was there, Altogether with these pretty objects in full view, and the perfume of Howers and the sound of music filling the air, the large congregation had reason for the admiration they felt. The reception at No. 9 West Fifty-sixth-st., the bride's home, which followed, was largely attended. When Mrs. Dunning departed she threw her bouquet (which fell into seven parts) at her seven bridesmalds, and the one who got the bunch containing a beautiful ring expects to be the next one of the group to be married-a popular superstition that could easily be sustained by facts in this case at least. Earlier in the day there was an artistic wedding at No 124 East Twenty-seventh-Brewsier (both artists) were married by Hishop Potter. Fashionable artistic circles were represented both among the guests and in the decorations—including the Associated Artists. There was not a large number of people present, but to every one there it was an emirely satisfactory gathering.

JR. BLAINE'S SUNSTROKE IN 'SBVENTY-SIX.

From The Washington Post

Dr. Pope has been Mr. Blaine's family physician for the past twenty years and is thoroughly qualified to speak of his present condition.

He said last night:

"Mr. Blaine was a man of splendid constitution at the time he jeft here, and was perfectly free from any constitutional disease. His normal weight since I have known him has been from 125 to 100 pounds. The only disease that ever troubled him was an occasional attack of dyspepsia and rheumatic gout, which affected his feet. His kinney, heart and all which affected his feet. His kinney, heart and all which affected his feet. His kinney, heart and all which affected his feet. His kinney, heart and all which affected his feet. His kinney heart and all see that it is given out that he has diabetes. This could hardly be so, as it is a disease of very slow growth, and the symptoms are great thirst, steady emaciation and the presence of sugar in the urine.

"In Blaine had none of these symptoms when he left this city. The probability is that he is suffering from nervous debility, augmented, perhaps, by a slight attack of dyspepsia, caused by over work and a fallure to take sufficient exercise." The doctor having given this diagnosis of his present condition, the reporter referred to the famous sunstroke in June, "I did," said he, "and I am very glad of this op-who liked to see good pictures bring good prices. Chick-ering Hall was well filled at 8 o'clock, probably two or three times as many people being present as on Friday night. The reason for this was that many of and there was a general desire both to buy the fine works and to see them bought. Defore the beginning of the sale Lerolle's "The End of the Day" was displayed, and there was an opportunity to study the picture that was destined to bring the highest price of

The bidding began rather slowly, but soon became brisk and interesting. The first three pictures brought $85, $90 and $95, and after that nothing sold for less than $100. The buyers soon seemed to tire even of the small hundreds and $500 and $1,000 were common bids "to start it." There were frequent bursts of applause when the heavy red curtains were drawn aside to show especially fine pictures, and also when the bidding grew exciting and large sums were shouted back and forth by the auctioneer, Mr. Kirby, and the ouyers. Michel, Dupre, Diaz, Rousseau and Millet were the favorite artists, though some others also ought some of the best single prices.

Browning bought Corot's "Crossing the Bridge" and J. J. Henner's "Youth." "Cupid's Offering," by Diaz, was sold to H. M. Sistare; "Autumn," by Rousseau, to H. S. Wilson, and Millet's Woman Sewing" to W. Browne. T. B. Walker bought "A Summer Day," by Dupre, and "The Old Castle," by Michel. The prices of all these pictures are given below. The total receipts from the eighty-two works sold last night were $53,055, and this, added to the amount received on Friday night, gives $70,220 for the sale thus far. The rest of the collection will be sold at the American Art Galleries, Mariison square, to-morrow night, and they will be on exhibition to-morrow till 3 p. m.

GETTING READY TO INVESTIGATE. SENATOR FASSETT TALES ABOUT THE WORK BEFORE

HIS COMMITTEE. Senator Fassett, the chairman of the State Senat Committee that has undertaken the task of examining Governor Hill's peculiar relations to the New Aque-duct, and various other matters of municipal misrule, arrived here Friday night, and was kept busy yesterday making the preliminary arrangements for the inquiry. This will be done to-morrow, though it is not expected that the committee will be able to get fairly down to work before the Legislature adjourns. Legal counsel has not yet been definitely engaged, but the names of several prominent lawyers have been under consideration, including General B. F. Tracy, of Brooklyn; Colonel George Bliss, Elihu Root, Frank of Brooklyn; Colonel George Bliss, Elihu Root, Frank E. Smith and several others. Mr. Fassett said yesterday that he hoped to be able to hold two or three sessions of the committee to take testimony before the Lexislature finished its labors. Until then the preparatory work would be carefully arranged. He denounced the article in "The Times" yesterday on the investigation, claiming that the paper was trying to cripple the committee at the outset. "So far as I am concerned," he added, "we will go to the bottom of all these charges, and if they are untrue, so much the better for the people of the State. Governor Hill has admitted the truth of the charges against him, but denies the implications. The public, however, will sustain the the implications. The public, however, will sustain the implication till he shows himself clear of suspicion.

He represented the 1st District of Magara County in the Assembly in 1847, and was mayor of Lockport for two terms. daughter, Rosa. On the day of the tragedy Rosa was scolded by her father, and Benjamin took her part. There was a violent quarrel and then the lad drew a revolve and shot his father dead, and took his own life. Mrs. Leventhal was left about $500 of the pedier's estate, and her new husband persuaded her to make an arrangement by which either of them could draw money from the bank on her pass-book. About $200 of the sum was drawn out and spent by Levi in three weeks. On Friday he stole the pass-book and disappeared. She learned yesterday that he had drawn out the remaining $300. Mrs. Levi said that she was afraid her husband intended to go to Europe, where he formerly lived.

THE HARVARD CLEB NOMINATES OFFICERS. A regular meeting of the Harvard Club of New-York was held last evening at their club-house, No. 11 West Twenty-second-st, and was fully attended. A resolution in honor of the memory of Dr. Holden, who was a mamber of the club, was adopted. Upon motion of George Waiton Green it was resolved that the secretary be in-structed to send to each member a notice cailing attention to the fact that Charles C. Hesman, a former president of the club, has been put in nomination for a position on the and it was thought that the members of the club would cast their votes as a unit for him. The nominating committee reported the following list of officers, who will be voted for at the annual meeting on May 12:

President, Francis O. French; vice-president, Edward King; secretary, Evert Jansen Wendell; treasurer, William Montgomery, ir.; Board of Managers, Edward Wetmore, Charles C. Beaumen, Nathaniel T. Hoyt, D. Crawford Clark. After the business was completed a suppor was served.

SUICIDE IN A CROWDED STREET.

Chicago, April 14 -- In the presence of hundreds of people on the busiest thoroughfare of Chicago, Simon senfield, a traveling salesman, stabled himself to sidewalk dezd. State-st., near Washington, the centre of the fashionable shopping district, was the scene of the tracedy. A pawn ticket for an over-coat was all that the dead man's pockets contained. There were three letters. One from his sister in Detroit expresses the hope that her brother had given up "that awful habit, drink."

TO HOLD AN ANTI-SALOON CONFERENCE. The second National Anti-Saloon Republican Con ference, which will be held here on May 2 and 3, promises to be well attended. Mr. Griffin and th ther members of the committee in charge of it declare that its success as regards this is assured. About to send delegations, and most of these will be large and representative. That of Minnesota, for example, and representative. That of Minnesota, for example, will consist of over fifty men, including Bishop Ireland, General A. B. Nettleton, President Strong and exserce are windom.

Reduced rates for the delegates have been obtained on all the railroads. Among the speakers at the Conference will be Senator Evarts. Congressman Cutcheon, of Michigan; Mrs. J. Ellen Foster, ex-Judge Davis, and a number of other party leaders.

A NEW MAGAZINE FOR CORNELL. The Cornell Magazine," a sprightly monthly, which is edited jointly by the faculty and students of the University, made its appearance here to-day, and had a big sale. Edward Everett Hale, ir., is editor There are fifty-four pages of reading matter. Presi dent Adams has the opening article. He writes on the "Successes and Fallures of College-bred Men." The article is a reply to senator Ingalis, who recently argued that collegate training is a hindrance to any one desirous of a political career.

TIED UP IN THE MESHES OF THE LAW.

THE CURIOUS COMPLICATIONS THAT SURBOUND A YOUNG COUPLE IN MISSOURI.
Kansas City, April 14 (Special.—Judge Horton. of the Kansas Supreme Court, yesterday rendered a decision in a novel case. In 1885, Jesse McFarland was sentenced to the penitentiary for a term of five years for concubinage. He loved Joanna Green and the love was returned, but Joanna's mother objected. They went to the next county but the girl being under ago, they could not procure a license. They stayed all night at a hotel, but McFarland did not go near Joanna's room. Next day they went to Carthage, Mo., and there the night was spent at a hotel but they occupied separate rooms. A license was procored next day and they were married by a perso who, they supposed, had authority to perform the ceemony. They thus showed their intent to be pure. When they returned to Cherokee County, they lived not satisfied with her defeat and on the advice of lawyers she had McFarland arrested for concu-binage. He was tried and sentenced to a five year term in the penitentiary. Owing to a technical informality in the transcript of the court records. the case was never properly brought before the Supreme Court, but Judge Horton reviewed the testi-mony, and thereon issued his dictum, which has no weight against the decision of the lower court. The Judge decides that the marriage was lawful*in every sense. The case will be at once brought before the Board of Pardons, and McFarland will undoubtedly be set free.

But there will then arise a series of complications which will be decidedly unpleasant for both man and wife. The decree of the lower court still stands and according to that decree they are not man and wife. If they live together again, he is liable to arrest for the same offence, yet, if he marries some other woman, the Supreme Court says he is already married to Joanna Green. If he should marry Joanna McFarland, now that she is of lawful age, he would be committing bigamy with his own wife. She cannot marry again, yet, she cannot live with her husband, for the lower Court says he is a concubine.

OBITUARY.

WILLIAM F. SHERWIN. Boston, April 14 (Special).-Professor William F Sherwin, for several years an instructor in the New England Conservatory of Music, died at his home in Dorchester this morning age sixty-two. He was a native of Buckland, Mass.; but spent the most of his life in Albany and New-York, with a short residence in Cincinnati. At the Conservatory his special duty was the drilling of chorners and in that work he displayed great ability. He was also well known as president of the New-England Chautanqua Circle. A widow and three children survive him.

Art and Utility.

A carefully selected stock of artistic furniture and brica-brac saves housekeepers a great deal of running about to find what they want. Sometimes, to be sure, they see so many things they must have in such a stock that they are tempted into buying more than they mean to; but where the dealer has unusual opports buying, and is thus able to offer the very be prices, a given amount of maney will go very far. Syphet Co. at Broadway, corner Seventeenth-st., have on exhibi-tion, and the public is invited to inspect, an exceptionally attractive assortment of antique and modern furniture, bric-a-brac, trunes, iruries, curtains and hangings, wrought iron and brass work, everything, in fact, that goes to furnish and adorn a well furnished house, tableware included; and these are ofered at prices that all can afford. The various articles are by the most celebrated makers, and each is a study in art. Some of the pieces have historical value and interest, and have been used by the nobility of the old world. Among the paintings exhibited is an original Rumbrandt recently brought to this country from a celebrated Italian private collection, which art lovers should not fail to see.
